

Here are two random items from the war news:

"Robert P. Patterson, former Secretary of War, says the North Koreans launched their offensive in response to a Moscow command. He predicted they will be driven back to the 38th parallel (boundary line between North and South Korea) in six months."

"Secretary of State Acheson vigorously denounced the so-called 'Soviet peace petition'... Diplomatic informants in Washington said warily that it was too early to tell whether the Soviets are really maneuvering to help end the conflict or whether they are simply encouraging a hope that they will do so, while the actual fighting continues to go in the favor of the North Korean Communists."

More important of the two items, of course, is the first—and we pray that former War Secretary Patterson knows what he is talking about.

Our hand has been called by Russia in a zone where we fought and won World War II single-handedly—against the Japanese empire—and until Russia's native allies from North Korea are kicked back into their own country we have no use for diplomats.

What Russia intends to do is vastly less important than our own plans. America wants to make sure right now whether we have dependable allies against this Korean aggression—or whether we will be expected to handle it alone.

Historically speaking, the outlook for heavy help in the fighting isn't good. Our major allies from whom fighting men might be expected are France and Great Britain.

But France already has an undeclared war on her hands in Indo-China, with a vast army fighting Communist-inspired guerrillas.

The other ally, Britain, has a curious record. The real power of Britain has never lain in land armies. True, she has been a genuine power on the sea. But actually Britain's far-reaching authority has rested through centuries on the alertness and energy of her diplomats—their ability to play Britain's tune on the organ of Balance of Power... that is, producing division among many countries so Britain could have her way.

But the sands of time have run out on the British game. Small nations have been reduced, and big nations have gotten bigger, until the "divide and rule" theory is no longer workable.

And yet, the British may still have to come to our aid in the Korean crisis with what land-fighting resources they have. For the only alternative to backing us up in an Oriental war would be to trust to Russian promises of a fair division of trade in China and the other Eastern countries where Britain has done business for centuries.

That's not much of an alternative.

And if Britain welched on us in favor of Russian "promises" it is entirely probable the Labor government in London would be overthrown.

Perhaps we don't really stand alone.

U. S. Reports Loss of Two Superforts

Tokyo, Friday, July 14 —(UP)—Two U. S. Superfortresses were lost in the last two days, one of them to enemy action, the Far East air force announced today.

North Korean fighters shot down a B-29 over the coast of south Korea Wednesday. It was the first of the big bombers downed by the enemy.

Another was lost Thursday, but not to enemy action. An announcement said the crew bailed out over the water between Korea and Japan.

A spokesman said he believed there were survivors of both planes. A search was continuing, but it was impeded by bad weather.

As far as is known, the spokesman said, the North Korean planes which downed the Superfort Wednesday were conventional fighters. There was no indication they were jets.

Russia Said to Have 800 Ships Ready for Action

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—Russia is believed to have an assorted collection of about 800 naval craft deployed near the Korean war area—including between 70 and 80 submarines.

Naval sources here figure that perhaps a third of this school of submarines are the new XXI snorkels.

Although the 800 total estimate is numerically big, there is no present evidence that it comprises anything like a balanced naval force. Those studying the situation believe many of these vessels are small craft of various types and that certainly nothing bigger than cruisers are in the area.

So far as can be determined, the Russian navy still possesses no aircraft carriers.

One unknown factor seems to be how many of the smaller Soviet vessels may be landing craft or types that could be used in emergency for an amphibious operation.

The presence in the Far East of any sizeable number of landing craft could be of grave concern to American forces. They could be used to provide an amphibious "lift" for North Korean flanking operations down the South Korean coast lines. Or they might some day be used in an attempted operation against the American defense bastion in Japan, should Russia and the United States fall into gloves-off war.

However, it is the Russian submarine force that is drawing most U. S. attention.

As deployed, the Red sub fleet in the Far East seems to have as its main job the potential duty of cutting the Asiatic-American lifeline along which the United States would send help in event of general war in the Orient.

An almost equally important mission is to carry on reconnaissance of American and British naval ship, transport ship and air movement in the western Pacific and the seas bordering Eastern Asia.

If there have been any sightings of suspicious actions by Russian submarines in those waters, the Pentagon has kept it secret.

Speed Up in Arms to Europe Likely

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—Strong sentiment is developing within the administration to speed up the flow of American arms to western Europe as a result of the Korean crisis.

Some officials are talking of sharply increasing, perhaps doubling, the present rate of delivery of $1,000,000 worth of guns, tanks and other equipment now being given to this country's Atlantic pact allies.

Behind the scenes discussions of the state of North Atlantic treaty defenses reflect a widespread concern over the total defensive strength of the non-Communist world.

The tense world situation is generating new pressures inside the government for some degree of home front mobilization in order to increase armament production.

Another and more direct pressure for marshalling more of America's resources for war is said to arise from the mounting evidence that the United States is in for a long and costly struggle in Korea.

So far there is a conflict of requirements between the urgent buildup of forces fighting in Korea and the European arms aid program as presently scheduled.

Without a swift and substantial increase of arms manufacturing here, some authorities say weapons may have to be "borrowed" for the Far East. They deplore this necessity because in both military and diplomatic strategy, Europe, rather than Asia, is rated as the primary focus of American security interests.

One move to speed up joint European and American defense arrangements is already planned. Charles M. Spofford, secretary of state Acheson's deputy on the North Atlantic treaty council, is slated to leave here for London shortly after his expected confirmation by the senate in a few days.

Soviet Historian Belittles UN Action in Korea

Moscow, July 13 —(AP)—Eugene Talbe, noted Soviet historian, belabored U. N. Secretary Tygve Lie today for supporting American intervention in Korea.

Writing in the Communist party op's capitals on his peace mission, "calls all the powers to help American annexationists in their Korea bandit enterprise."

Table's attack followed a series of similar blasts against Lie in the Moscow press over the past week.

Underground Reds Step Up Activities

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—U. S. Communists have increased their underground operations during the past year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today. The result, he said, is the heaviest work load his agency ever has handled.

In an annual review of FBI activities for the fiscal year which ended June 30, Hoover said the number of investigations involving internal security and national defense is at a record level, exceeding the volume of similar work during the World War II years.

"The increased work load," the report said, "stems from the activities of the Communist party and the expanded orbit of their underground operations."

"Increased security consciousness on the part of the party leadership has brought about decentralization of party administrative machinery and transfer of previously open operations to an underground apparatus."

"These developments" have complicated the FBI task of maintaining coverage of Communist activity."

The FBI director recently asked congress for more than 300 additional agents, saying they were required principally for internal security investigations.

The annual report showed 8,921 convictions in FBI cases of all kinds during the 1950 fiscal year, a six per cent increase over 1949. Hoover said that in line with previous years, 96.9 per cent of all trials growing out of FBI inquiries resulted in convictions.

No Decision Yet on Camp Chaffee

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—No decision has been made whether Camp Chaffee, Ark., should be reopened the office of Rep. Tackett (D-Ark) was notified today.

Tackett's staff checked on reports that Camp Chaffee is to be reopened for training purposes.

An army spokesman said officials have under consideration the question of what camps should be opened in event large scale troop training does become necessary in view of the Korean crisis.

He also said various factors would be considered including the type of training facilities which would be needed and how quickly camps could be reopened.

He said Chaffee undoubtedly would be among the camps considered but that at the present time nothing is definite.

Chaffee one of the big World War II training camps located near Ft. Smith, Ark., has been held on a standby basis by the army since the last war.

Demands Look Into Charges by McCarthy

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) demanded today that the senate Communist inquiry be reopened for a look into Senator McCarthy's latest charges—accusations the state department termed false and distorted.

The charges by McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, are based on material which he said proves that the department hired men in 1946 to strip its personnel files of derogatory information about other employees.

The department last night got out a statement accusing McCarthy of "a characteristic distortion of facts."

There was no indication that Hickenlooper's demand for an inquiry into McCarthy's new charges would be heeded by the Democratic majority of a senate foreign relations subcommittee. Hickenlooper is one of the two Republican members of that group, which for four months investigated McCarthy's contentions that the state department has Communists and fellow travelers on its payroll.

McCarthy yesterday produced four statements signed by men he said the state department hired four years ago. They told of being directed to destroy all data in personnel files of a damaging nature to other employees.

McCarthy, in a letter to President Truman, said the statements bore out his charges that department loyalty files had been "denuded" by the agency before the records were turned over to the inquiry committee.

In reply, the department said the 1946 removal of documents was a thorough-going reorganization of personnel records made necessary by the influx of several thousand employees who were transferred from war-time agencies.

The department stressed that the records dealt with personnel and had nothing to do with loyalty and security files. Those files, the department added, "were and are separately maintained in a security division wholly removed from the personnel operation."

The department also said that to the best of its knowledge the personnel files were not destroyed, "except in the case of such materials as duplicate documents, routine office transmittal sheets, superseded forms, etc."

Korea May Be a Prelude of What Is Coming and We Can't Afford Not to Be Ready

By HAL BOYLE

New York —(AP)—There is a growing uneasiness among army veterans that the American expedition in Korea may end in another Dunkerque.

Time, they feel, is fighting right now on the side of the heavily armored North Koreans—and against the lighter-armed U. S. forces.

One retired high-ranking officer I talked to felt that only an immediate mobilization of manpower and industry could stave off disaster in Korea—and perhaps other fronts to follow. He is one of the most experienced veterans of the last war, having fought in Africa, Sicily and Europe.

"We'll be lucky in Korea if we pushed right back into the sea," he said. "The situation there is simply a matter of mathematics."

"So far we've had to send a boy to do a man's work. We've had to throw in a couple of companies here—a battalion there—and watch them get chewed to pieces."

It's the same thing we did at Kasserine gap—feed small units in one at a time to be destroyed."

This officer felt there was real doubt whether enough reinforcements could be put into the field in time to avoid a complete withdrawal from Korea.

He pointed out that the North Koreans had bucked 100 miles in slightly more than two weeks—and that another 100-mile advance would carry them to the tip of the peninsula.

"We may be able to hold a defensive beachhead in the south where the terrain is pretty mountainous," he said. "But it will be terribly difficult."

The battline is about 125 to 135 miles wide. To do the job right we ought to have at least six good divisions on the line—and two in reserve. That means eight divisions at the least. And eight divisions is an army—150,000 men or more.

Liquor Permits Suspended at Newport

Little Rock, July 13 —(AP)—Permits of two Newport liquor stores, charged with violating the Arkansas liquor price-fixing act, were suspended until Aug. 1 by State Revenue Commissioner Dean Morley today.

The permits were issued to W. W. Halbert and to Autry Irving and Albert Smith. The permits were not renewed July 1 because of charges that they had sold liquor below the fixed minimum prices. Morley announced today that the permit holders would be suspended for 30 days and their permits renewed on Aug. 1.

No Immediate Tax Increase Says George

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee said today he sees no prospect of increasing federal taxes at the present session of congress, even though the Korean situation worsens.

"There will be plenty of time for that in January, if the need arises," he said.

George formally announced the indefinite suspension of work on the house-passed $1,000,000 excise tax slashing bill but he did not write off entirely the chance of some action later on this legislation.

He summed up the situation for newsmen as his finance committee concluded public hearings on the house bill.

Military leaders asked the senate appropriations committee for a $150,000 increase in funds to boost the strength of the national guard.

Senators Hayden (D-Ariz.) and Maybank (D-SC) said the committee decided to wait until President Truman submits an expected request for additional military funds for the Korean fighting before acting on the national guard item.

The decision to put the tax cutting bill aside came, George said, after Secretary of the Treasury Snyder allowing a conference with the President, advised him that it would not be prudent to cut taxes at this time, in view of the Korean situation.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, national organization of businessmen, applauded the decision to put the bill aside, and foresaw the possibility of higher—not lower—taxes if things "turn for the worse" in Korea.

Names Official

Little Rock, July 13 —(AP)—Mrs. Christine Spradlin of Searcy has been named by Governor McMath to succeed her late husband, C. C. Spradlin as white county circuit clerk. Her term expires next Dec. 31.

Tydings said that "several billion dollars" worth of aircraft now are on order for the air force, the navy and the marines.

A speed-up in deliveries would mean an increase in the present rate of military spending since original plans were to spread the cost of the planes over a long period.

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, discussed the navy's plans with the committee during its closed session.

In addition to announcing the resolution on planes, Tydings told a news conference:

1. Defense officials are carefully examining the question of whether wartime controls over manpower and materials are needed. He indicated that a decision probably would not be made for several weeks.

2. It is his personal opinion that congress can not even think of quitting for several months unless there is a sharp change in the present critical situation in Korea.

Tydings said it is his personal opinion that the Korean situation remains extremely serious and the campaign there will be a long one.

Nearly-Blind Youth Wants a Pony

Clarendon, July 13 —(AP)—If you were nearly nine years old and facing blindness, what gift aside from restoration of eyesight would you ask for?

For Joe Reigister, it was a pony.

That was shortly after he had been hit in the eye with a rock, losing the sight of that eye. The sight of the other eye is rapidly failing. Doctors say little Joe soon will be totally blind.

When neighbors heard of Joe's desire, they got busy, collected a pot and bought a shodland.

On Joe's ninth birthday, there was a gala party. Then came the big moment—a pony of his very own for the lad.

Profiteering in Food Unjust Says Brannan

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said today it is a "fair deduction" that profiteering in food has started as a result of the Korean war.

Brannan said profiteering is entirely unjustified but that he would prefer not to comment now on what can or should be done about it.

The secretary talked with White House reporters about some recent boosts in food prices, as in meat and bread, after calling on President Truman. He said he had also discussed the price rises generally with the President, among other matters.

The secretary was asked what view he takes of profiteering—whether it is "a healthy thing for our economy."

"No," he answered slowly. "I don't think it is. It has a tendency to stimulate hoarding and there is no physical justification for hoarding food products, not a single one."

He said there is no justification either for sudden increases in food prices. The country is producing food at a rate 20 percent greater than in 1941. Brannan said, even though this year's wheat crop is expected to be lower.

The secretary said he knew of nothing, outside the Korean situation that might be responsible for pushing up food prices. The big corn crop, he said, should have had a depressing effect on beef, but a strong purchasing power evidently is the main factor of a rise at this time.

Speed Combat Planes Agrees Committee

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—The senate armed services committee unanimously agreed today that the armed services should seek faster delivery of several billion dollars worth of combat aircraft now on order.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) announced the group had taken that stand at a closed meeting. He said it adopted this resolution:

"In view of the present critical Korean situation and the threatening situation throughout the world, it is the opinion of the senate committee on armed services that the military establishment should immediately give consideration to accelerating the delivery of planes on order to the maximum extent necessary."

Tydings said that "several billion dollars" worth of aircraft now are on order for the air force, the navy and the marines.

A speed-up in deliveries would mean an increase in the present rate of military spending since original plans were to spread the cost of the planes over a long period.

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, discussed the navy's plans with the committee during its closed session.

In addition to announcing the resolution on planes, Tydings told a news conference:

Arkansan Shoots Down First Plane in Korea

Little Rock, July 13 —(AP)—An air force gunner from Arkansas is credited with shooting down the first enemy plane in the Korean conflict.

He is Cpl. John N. Rich Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Rich of Jacksonville, near Little Rock.

His parents learned about the distinction—and also learned for the first time he was in combat—yesterday when they received a citation awarded their son by Brig. Gen. John P. Doyle, USAF, commanding general of the Far East air material command.

Besides pointing out he was credited with the first hit, the citation praises Rich for the "brave and efficient way you have carried out your duties during this emergency x x x."

Weary U. S. Troops Get New Boss

Tokyo, July 13 —(AP)—Weary, tank-lashed U. S. doughboys dug in today on the Kum river's south bank for a new defense against North Korea's Red horde. They had a new commander, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, veteran tank fighter of World War II.

The front was relatively quiet. Presumably the North Koreans were regrouping for an assault across the vital Kum, last natural barrier in South Korea. Allied warplanes pounded transport and supply routes north of the river throughout the day.

An advanced headquarters spokesman said several bridges across the winding Kum river, 13 miles north of Taejon, were blown up last night. One was a large railway bridge.

The Reds launched a new drive from newly-won Tanyang, 65 miles northeast of Taejon. Heading southwest, it looked like a push to cut the vital rail line from the south-east port of Pusan to Taejon, key defense center 13 miles south of the Kum.

General MacArthur announced the appointment last midnight of Walker, chief of the eighth army in Japan, as commander of ground forces in Korea.

The eighth army has set up an advanced command post in Korea and taken over the job of U. S. army forces in Korea (USAFIK). The latter command was abolished.

Walker commanded the famed armored "ghost corps" of General George Patton's Third army in Europe. He was cited by Britain and prised by the U. S. war department (now the department of the army) for his coordination of infantry and armored groups.

Walker made a flying visit to the Korean fighting front Saturday. MacArthur did not say if Walker would return to Korea.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, conferred here with MacArthur and, presumably, with Walker.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief for the navy in the Pacific, was flying from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo to confer with MacArthur.

MacArthur's communique said the 15th and Fifth North Korean divisions have started a drive to the southwest "in a wide envelopment heading for Hamchang," 45 miles northeast of Taejon and on a line that would take them to the Pusan-Taejon railroad if they were successful.

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the front that the drive began when the Reds bridged the Han river at Tanyang, about 20 miles east of fallen Chongju, and sent one division with artillery rolling south.

Advance American Headquarters, Korea, July 13 —(AP)—Communist North Korean troops started two heavy attacks about 10 a. m. today with about two divisions against South Korean forces in the central peninsula area, a headquarters spokesman said.

Meanwhile the American sector was very quiet while the Red Koreans shifted their attack weight to the South Koreans on two flanks. The spokesman said Australian and American planes worked over the new attack area from dawn to dusk and added they would renew their strikes at dawn tomorrow.

The South Koreans were forced to give up some ground "but not much," he said.

Cochlown, abandoned by the Americans yesterday, was hit by B-29s carrying six tons of bombs late today. Their specific targets were Red tanks and a broad range of other military equipment.

On Joe's ninth birthday, there was a gala party. Then came the big moment—a pony of his very own for the lad.

B-29s Strike at Reds; Ground Push Unchecked

Tokyo, July 13 —(AP)—U. S. forces threw their first heavy superfortress strike at the Red today, blasting a rail yard with 500 tons of bombs.

The raid was made in response to a rail center near the 38th parallel by nearly 100 B-29s. All returned safely to their bases.

On the ground, weary U. S. troops dug in behind the Kum river while three North Korean divisions massed to force an assault over the barrier.

Far to the northeast, the bridge over the Han river at Tanyang was hit and sent at least one division of the Kum river line.

General MacArthur in a communique covering the attack reported earlier in front of the Korean forces "continue to draw before numerically inferior forces to take up defensive positions and barriers."

He apparently referred to the withdrawal south of the Pusan-Taejon line.

MacArthur's headquarters announced Thursday that American losses to date were 42 killed, 100 wounded and missing.

Losses sustained by the Red forces have been reported as 100 killed, 200 wounded and missing.

"Individual wounded are shocked have given a very distorted picture," he said.

"American ground units are fighting one of the skillful and heroic holding rear guard actions in the history of the war."

"Casualties inflicted upon enemy have been immense. Each day we see the enemy's relative superiority in numbers and weapons."

Hurled back by North Korean Red horde, weary doughboys dug in on the Kum river's south bank for a new defense. They had a new commander, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, veteran tank fighter of World War II.

Nearly 50 B-29 Superfortresses plastered a key North Korean target with 500 tons of bombs today in the mightiest single blow of the Korean campaign.

The mission, inaugurated by precision bombing by two of Superfortresses rushed here from the Far East, was a rain and mist for the largest force of the campaign. The was a railroad center north of the 38th parallel.

DOROTHY DIX

Unpopular

Dear Miss Dix: I am a middle aged woman and I don't know whether I am just a victim of self-pity or am plain "touchy" about my friends. I have tried to play square and have never failed to help them in every emergency. I am worried when they are in trouble and put myself out to help them. But am I popular? No. Although I want to be in the swim of things I am just another woman who fills in at a luncheon or a card game. I don't click. Is it because I don't brag about my accomplishments or my things to people's faces and behind their backs? Tell me, does it pay to be a hypocrite, or to be true to one's ideals? I'd love to be popular, but although I have a few friends who are true to me I am never singled out or fussed over. Why is this?

Answer: If you have only one friend on whose faithfulness and affection you can depend, you are fortunate. If you have two or three whose hands you can reach out and touch in the dark, you are rich beyond the dreams of avarice. All have returned to their home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Honeycutt, and other friends in Hope.

Brox Zoo, New York, operates the world's largest earthworm factory, to feed its duck-billed platypuses.

of us have many pleasant acquaintances, men and women who are intelligent and agreeable and whose society we enjoy.

Can't Depend on Them

But these are fairweather friends, not the real friends who ride out the storm with us and on whose faith and loyalty we can depend, no matter what befalls us. Nor is this as unfair as it sounds. Probably these people give us as much in real liking as we give them. They would do as much for us as we would do for them, and we are quits when we mutually make life pleasant and gay for each other. Think it over and you will realize that you get a lot of fun and entertainment in going to the luncheons and the bridge parties of women even if you know that they have no profound affection for you, and that while they might send flowers to your funeral, they would never break a date to attend it.

You ask if it pays to be a hypocrite. Certainly not if you mean taking advantage of kissing a sister to stab her in the back, but I have found that so often women make the charge of hypocrisy a blanket indictment to cover all of the amenities of life. Perhaps in trying not to be hypocritical you lean over backward and antagonize people by telling them truths which they resent hearing and to which it is none of your business to call their attention, anyway.

But the secret of popularity is a mystery that none can explain. Some fortunate individuals are born with the magic that draws every one they meet to them. Every eye

PC Issue Filed for This Session

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — The Senate today killed off all chances of a filibuster on the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

The Senate voted 55 to 33 to limit the debate on the bill to 60 days. The bill would require a two-thirds vote of the full membership to be required to choke off the action.

The action was taken after less than an hour of floor discussion. The bill was signed by 40 senators, both Democrats and Republicans. It was filed by Lucas Moneta and marked his second unsuccessful effort to bring FEPC before the Senate this year.

The bill would establish a federal commission to enforce orders of discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color. It would also prevent the Southern lawmakers thus far from preventing the measure from coming before the Senate.

The Senate spent about two

Russian Success in Korea Is Expected — as Long as This Is So the War Will Continue

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Most of us, I imagine, are reading the war-news from Korea with mixed emotions — with vast pride in the gallant job being done by our boys against tremendous odds, but with grave anxiety over how long it may take to provide sufficient troops and equipment to overcome those odds.

We are agreed, I hope (for if we aren't we ought to be), that this is exactly the situation which we should expect in this early stage of the operation. Under huge hand-weeks last May arguing over the motion of Senate Democratic Leader Lucas, of Illinois, to take the bill up.

He then filed a cloture-debate limiting — petition requiring 64 votes, two-thirds of the Senate, for approval.

Fifty-two senators, 12 below the requirement, voted for cloture, and 32 against when the test was made May 19.

Lucas filed the second cloture petition last Monday after giving the Senate about 30 days notice of his intention. Forty senators signed it.

cabs we are undertaking to counter the carefully planned aggression of a powerful and well trained army, fully equipped with up-to-date weapons by the Russians.

Therefore, being forewarned, we accept with regret but understanding resignation when we are told that the North Korean Communists have flung the American line back in the strategic Kum river region of South Korea. It was a blow of great strength, powered by an estimated 80 Russian-made tanks, some of which were 60-ton giants.

Korean maps are a bit confusing, I'm afraid. But we can sum up the position roughly by pointing out that the Kum river has been the Yanks' major defense line north of the city of Taejon — central South Korea — which has been a U. S. field headquarters.

General MacArthur gave us a useful interpretation in his communique yesterday, when he said: "American forces — are continuing their action to stabilize the situation by stopping the North Korean offensive about the Kum river."

That's it — a stabilizing operation. And that's the sort of thing which we must expect to continue

'Its Murder' Declares MacArthur

By WILLIAM JORDEN

Tokyo, July 12 — (AP) — General MacArthur's headquarters today declared four U. S. soldiers had been murdered on the battlefield and warned North Koreans that those guilty of such "barbarity" face death if caught.

Field dispatches, cross-checked in an attempt to weed out duplications, have put the number of U. S. prisoners slain at 18.

Headquarters said the proof was in the form of official photographs showing four Americans with their hands tied behind their backs. They were shot through the head.

The bodies were found when counterattacks won back temporarily the ground where the soldiers were slain.

The communique said MacArthur was "astounded by these barbaric acts and holds the leadership of the North Koreans responsible."

The communique, after detailing what the official pictures showed, concluded:

"The murder of the prisoners of war is a violation of the laws and customs of war and the perpetrators of such offenses as well as leaders who order, cause or permit the same are subject to the death penalty when imposed by military tribunals."

"The world has been shocked by these atrocities which violate the precepts of civilization. Appropriate action is being taken to inform the North Korean people of the inhuman acts committed by their armed forces."

The official photographer, in his report to MacArthur accompanying the battlefield pictures, declared:

"This is not killed in action. Call it murder."

The communique speculated that the four, all infantrymen, were killed immediately upon being captured.

brightens at their coming and every hand gives them a glad welcome. They may not be half so good and kind and unselfish as those who are passed over. They may not be half so good friends. But some how they get affection that is denied their superiors and the attentions they do not deserve. They just click, and that's all there is to it.

Dear Miss Dix: What are children's duty to their parents?

MRS. T. G. E.
Answer: I think that children's duty to their parents depends on how well the parents have done their duty to their children. If a father and mother have given their children a happy and peaceful home no matter how humble it may have been, if they have been tender loving understanding and have done their best to give them an education and a right start in the world; if they taught them courage self-reliance thrift industry and the principles by which they must stand or fall their children owe them a debt of affection and gratitude that they can never repay.

And my experience and observation is that the people who have been the right kind of parents never have to consider their children's obligations to them. The children do all they can for their fathers and mothers through love and not because of a sense of duty. But when parents have been ne-for a long time while we are mobilizing military strength and getting it onto the fighting front in Korea. Our men will meet with many crisis like the present one while reinforcements and equipment are being rushed from distant points to South Korea.

For that reason the next few weeks are likely to be days of heroic struggle against great odds for our fighting men. The odds are a foregone conclusion right now, but we have a right to expect that they will decrease steadily and not present a reputation of the experience of the lost U. S. battalion in the fighting last week end. You may recall how the combat-fatigued lieutenant summed the position up after his contingent battled until its ammunition was exhausted and then retreated:

"Ten to one is good odds. But we can't take 100 to one odds — without ammunition. x x Just give us the stuff."

Well, in the next few weeks while additional troops and "the stuff" are arriving in South Korea, we are going to encounter some tough going. However, we must accept this as the natural trend at this stage — a trend which our military chiefs expect will improve progressively until the tide turns and we sweep on to victory.

And is it necessary that we go through all this? Is there no way of halting the Korean war?

Apropos of that query the London foreign office has announced that Sir David Kelly, British Ambassador in Moscow, has had a Minister Andrei Gromyko regarding a "peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict."

So the possibilities are being explored. Of course an agreement between Moscow and the Western Allies would be the only way in which a settlement might be brought about. However, so long as the Reds are meeting with success in Korea the prospects of any settlement are grim.

When the time arrives that the position is reversed, then the Muscovets might agree to peace, having achieved all they could by aggression.

Limited Power Over Industry Is Sought

By STERLING F. GREN

Washington, July 13 — (AP) — Well-placed officials today reported growing pressure on the administration to seek at least limited control powers over industry to help arm the country for the fighting in Korea.

They said no specific plan yet has reached President Truman to their knowledge, nor has there been any decision on the seeking of emergency powers from Congress.

They said they expected the whole question of home-front mobilization to be placed before tomorrow's cabinet meeting. One official said there would be a "top to bottom" survey.

Some administration officials were reported to favor an early White House request for powers comparable to those of World War II, under which automobile assembly lines could be converted to tanks and guns, and radio and television plants to radar equipment.

Others, it was said, advocate a "wait-and-see" policy or one which would call controls into play only as needed.

glectful of their children; when parents have been so harsh and strict and tyrannical that they robbed their children of every pleasure and indulgence; when weak parents spoil and indulge children until they unfit them for life then I do not see that the children owe them any duty whatever.

I hear many parents talk about it being their children's duty to love them and respect them but this is impossible unless the parents have won their children's respect by their conduct and their love by their tenderness.

Dear Miss Dix: My sister is 20 years old and lost most of her front teeth in an accident. She is a very pretty girl but she is so unhappy about having false teeth that she has become morbid and refuses to go out to parties and dances. In reality she is just as lovely as ever.

WORRIED.

Answer: Tell your sister to brace up and take it on the chin. These days false teeth are made so artistically that they are often a great improvement upon the ones which Nature bestowed upon one. I know many people who are far better looking with their perfect store teeth than they were with their own, misshapen and off-colored ones.

A girl should have more courage than to let herself be downed by a little physical affliction. (Released by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

No Limit on Political Campaign

Little Rock, July 13 —(P)—There's no statute of limitations in political campaigning — and Governor McMath last night took advantage of that fact.

In his home town of Hot Springs McMath invited a comparison "of the roles played by Ben Lancy and myself in the elections of 1946 because I think they have a meaning that goes far beyond the immediate result of any political campaign."

Former Governor Lancy mean while spoke at Clarksville, in his campaign to dislodge McMath from the governor's office and return there himself. At Clarksville, home of Lancy campaign Manager Arnil Taylor, Lancy criticized what he called McMath's "police state methods."

It was in 1946 that McMath and his associates broke the long political reign of a Garland county (Hot Springs) organization headed by then Hot Springs Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin.

McMath was nominated prosecutor at the Democratic primary, but some other candidates on the same slate were defeated at the primary, ran as independents in the general election and were elected. Later they were declared the legal Democratic nominees by the courts.

Lancy has raised the "bolting" issue in connection with the election.

"Of this McMath said: 'This man (Lancy) who devoted his full time in the closing months of his term as governor to the futile effort to persuade the Democrats of Arkansas to throw away their votes so that a Republican might become President (a reference to Lancy's espousal of the national states rights Democratic ticket in the 1948 election) — this man now realizes the question of party loyalty. x x x

"x x that eminent authority on party bolting, Ben Lancy, is still carrying out that we had no right to challenge the Garland county machine x x even though the Supreme court of Arkansas formally recognized that our slate was defeated in the primary by fraud and declared us the legal nominees of the Democratic party."

Strikes Threat to U. S. Steel Production

Detroit, July 13 —(P)—Supplier strikers and a shortening of steel the spot view of the Korean war, it was learned today.

The two top military planners arrived early today and conferred with General MacArthur. Presumably they decided a first hand view of the fighting, and of army and air force facilities in the war zone was necessary for their planning.

It was not known whether they already were in Korea. They had announced they would remain in Japan only a day and a half.

The visiting generals went directly from Haneda airfield to a three-hour conference with MacArthur and his general staff.

gave concern today for the booming production of the auto industry.

Two strikes already have slowed assembly lines in some plants.

The steel supply problem, however, loomed as more serious. Heavy production in industry generally has cut into steel stocks. The auto industry itself has been producing at all time record rates. President Truman was said to be considering a request to congress for standby power to allocate steel and other critical materials because of the Korean war.

The Ford Motor Co. thought for a brief time yesterday it might have to eliminate Saturday over time work because of reduced steel supplies. But after rechecking the problem, the company said it would continue overtime production at 10 of its 15 Ford assembly plants this weekend. It has operated from seven to all 15 of these plants each Saturday on overtime this year.

Ford said its only curtailment would be a reduction from five to four days a week for the remainder of this month at its Metuchen, New J., and St. Louis Mercury plants.

At the same time Ford said a strike at the Budd Co. plant in Philadelphia would force a 20 per cent cut in truck production start

Damper Placed on Investments Abroad

Washington, July 12 —(P)— The house today passed a bill providing limited guarantees of American investments abroad under President Truman's "point four" program.

Heading a plea for approval from President Truman, the house sent the bill on to the senate after defeating, by a 32-vote margin, a Republican-sponsored move to shelve it. However, the bill is considerably more restricted than proposed originally by Mr.
Truman.

ernship in Texas. He became 151.

The $25,000,000 guarantee meas-many gallons of raw sewage on sand bars near the sewer system's main outlet in the east end of the city.

Saying he would demand that the city sewer commission take the situation, Loy explained:

"If the river runs true to form,
it's going to get worse. The weather bureau says that the river always falls this time of the year, and if it goes down another 3.2 feet, the sewage probably won't be able to reach the river at all."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Rain Falls in Many Areas
in Arkansas

Little Rock, July 12 —(P)— Rain fell in many areas of Arkansas during the past week — just in time to prevent crop damage.

The crop reporting service noted this in its weekly weather-crop summary, but added that "rain is still needed in some areas, and, although crops have not deteriorated much, prospects will decline if rain is not received soon."

"Cotton continues to make good growth," the report said.

"Blossoming has started in northern counties. Older cotton is fruiting heavily. Moisture supply is generally sufficient for cotton except in a few widely scattered areas. The first brood of boll weevils is appearing in some central and southern counties. The next two weeks will be a critical period. Boll worms are reported in large numbers in Bradley and Ashley counties."

The Service said that rice prospects are "promising" though some late-planted fields are grassy.
Corn was reported doing "quite well" except in a few scattered areas where it needed rain.

Car Sales Up

Little Rock, July 12 —(P)— Automotive agents here report that car and tire sales quadrupled between June 24 and July 11. They attributed the sudden buying spree to the Korean war.

Expected commercial production of peaches was placed at 1,728, year; of apples, 384,000 bushels against 708,000 last year.

Military Planning Up
to Four Men

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, July 12 —(P)— Four men—the joint chiefs of staff—are the top military planners in this country.

It's their job to figure out what the armed forces of this country can, or can't, or should do in any given situation.

Back in 1947 congress decided to put an end to the old conflict between the army, navy and air-force.

While each was completely independent of the other, they often worked at cross purposes and competed with each other for money to spend, for equipment, and even for men.

And their ideas on military planning went off in opposite directions. If, somehow, they could be brought together, congress thought, this wasteful conflict might be ended.

So in 1947 congress passed an act to "unify" the armed forces. Under this act the group known as "the joint chiefs of staff" was created.

Its four members are: General
Omar Bradley, chairman; General J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff of the army; Admiral Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations; and General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of staff of the air force.

All four men have their offices in the Pentagon, that massive home of the armed forces. But they don't meet every day, sitting around a table, arguing eight hours a day.

They have no fixed schedule for meetings. They may get together once a week or twice a week, or every day if there's a crisis, as there was with Korea a week ago.

The reason they don't have to meet round-the-clock is that they have other people doing the spade work for them. This is then turned over to them for final decision.

Working for the JCS is a staff of about 200 officers from the army, navy and air force. This staff occupies a wing of the Pentagon and it is broken up this way:

1. Committees. There are several committees, each specializing in a certain field. Each committee has three members—one from each of three branches of the service. Almost always these committee members are generals and admirals. For example: There's a committee on strategy, another on intelligence or military information, and so on.

2. Each committee in turn has the help of a "group". A group is made up of army, navy and air force officers, part of the 200-man staff which works for the JCS.

And the way the job is done goes like this: Say its necessary to figure out how we should fight a war with Russia, if that becomes necessary. Should the U. S. try to attack from the Arctic, through Western Europe, or from Asia or perhaps from all three directions?

The group on strategy will tactically call on the other groups for help, such as on military intelligence or information.

The strategy group will have to consider a million details: Whether, clothing, equipment, transportation, the number of men and planes and ships needed, whether long-range bombing or land attack is best.

When this strategy group of army, navy and airmen has worked out what it considers a reasonable plan — or plans — it makes its recommendations to the committee of the JCS.

Then this committee of two generals and an admiral goes over the problem, and the recommendation.
It either approves or sends it back to the group for more working over.

But say it thinks the plan prepared by the group is all right. It then recommends this to Bradley and the other three members of the JCS. The JCS can approve or send it back for more study.

But—although Bradley is chairman of the JCS and can take part cannot vote when the other three members get around to making a decision.

And—the decision of those three men must be unanimous. If one disagrees, then they turn the problem over to the secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, for decision.

Since in this country civilians are in control, on the big questions the JCS can make no decisions but can only recommend to the two heads of our military setup: President Truman, who is commander-in-chief, or Louis
Johnson, secretary of defense.

But—since recommendations of the JCS are supposed to represent the best military brains we have,
they have tremendous weight.

Sugar Demand Abnormal Is Report

Little Rock, July 13 —(P)— Food brokers here have reported an "abnormal demand" for sugar in this area.

They said they believed the Korean conflict had caused "scare" buying.

There's no good reason to fear
a shortage, they said.

Actually there's a surplus of sugar and the unusually heavy added.

When Louis Kossuth, Hungarian revolutionary leader, fled his homeland 100 years ago, and came to this country, Americans honored him by creating handmade glassware flasks bearing his name.
Widely distributed during Kossuth's visit in 1851-52, these are now rarities.
